

powdery stuff was so light and fluffy, she could toss it up into the air with her nose. A new game! Off she ran across the back yard, making a zigzag trail until she got stuck in a snowdrift that was deeper than her legs were long. She had to hop like a rabbit to get out and come back to the house. Piper had snowballs hanging from her beard, and from all the long hair on her legs and tummy!

