

“How can we teach Sophie that we love her just because she’s our dog—the one we chose from dozens of other puppies at the dog pound?” Claire asked her mother. “She has grown up to be good-hearted, gentle, and obedient, and that’s more important to us than the way she looks.”

“It might be some time before Sophie understands how special she is to us,” Mrs. Duncan replied. “We’ll just

