

IN MEMORY

BECKY WEIGAND

1998-2013

My beautiful Becky, you were the queen of stubborn, but that was really who you were. Your plan was usually as good as any in our retiring way of life. You were my companion, social life, comfort, and joy. I miss you dreadfully, but know you are free of your disabilities and pain. You are probably arranging dog heaven according to your appointed times. I hope the angels do not object too much, since you are used to having your own way. I did not mind, Becky. I loved you for the character you were, and there will never be another you.
