

CHAPTER 10

Another Goodbye

After the surgery on his right knee, Scottie-Robbie's left hind leg folded up under him for some reason. With two disabled back legs, he couldn't walk without help. "Help" was a strip of bath towel slung underneath his body, so that whoever walked him could lift and support his hind quarters. Scottie-Robbie definitely did not like being so "hung up."

